EMPLOYMENT IN BRITAIN

Labour Ministry Figures

London, Aug. 7.
The monthly employment figures issued by the Ministry of Labour show that on July 23 there were approximately 10,338,000 insured persons, aged 16 to 64, in employment in Great Britain. This was 27,000 less than the month before, but 394,000 more than the year before.

In most of the principal industries there were only slight changes in the general level of employment during July.

In engineering, shipbuilding and ship repairing, electrical apparatus manufacture, shipping and hotel service, the improvements shown in previous months continued, and there was a substantial increase in the numbers at work in coal mines.

On the other hand, there were further reductions in the cotton, wool and worsted, tailoring, boot and shoe and motor vehicle industries, while employment among builders also declined.

2,126,260 Unemployed.

The numbers of unemployed were 1,553,747 wholly unemployed, 492,872 temporarily stopped and 79,641 normally in casual employment, making a total of 2,126,260. This was 23,674 more than the month before, and 415,915 less than the year before.

The net increase, as compared with a month ago, is partly accounted for by workers, chiefly textile operatives, registering themselves as temporarily stopped during local holidays. These totalled about 20,000.

There was also a considerable increase in the number of unemployed boys and girls who had just left school.—

DROUGHT LOSS IN AMERICA

Twelve Thousand
Million Dollars

New York, Aug. 7.

The loss as the result of the drought is likely to total $12,000,000,000 (twelve thousand million dollars), a Relief Administration official informed President Roosevelt to-day.

Twenty-four States are involved in this economic catastrophe, the chief hit being Wyoming and Montana.—
Reuter.

VON PAPER'S POSITION

Ordinary Minister To Austria

Vienna, Aug. 7.
Captain von Papen will assume the duties of an ordinary German Minister abroad and will not become a special envoy to Austria as originally designated by Chancellor Hitler.

Such an appointment would have been contrary to diplomatic practice and was not considered at today's Cabinet meeting here, the German Government having finally decided to apply only for Captain von Papen's acceptance in the capacity of an ordinary minister.—
Reuter.

APPOINTMENT APPROVED

Vienna, Aug. 7.
The Austrian Cabinet, after a long session, to-day decided to agree to the appointment of Captain von Papen, as German Minister to Vienna.—
Reuter.

THE INVISIBLE MAN

With Gloria Stuart, Claude Rains, William Harrigan, Dudley Digges, Una O'Connor, Henry Travers, Forester Harvey. Screenplay by R.C. Sherriff. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. Directed by James Whale. Presented by Carl Laemmle. A UNIVERSAL PICTURE.

SUNDAY AT THE KING'S

THE MAN WHO RESCUED "THE LOST BATTALION"

The Career William Harrigan,

Real and make-believe!

The man who rescued the Lost Battalion, the nephew of Lillian Russell! Theatrical heritage of 273 unbroken years—That's William Harrigan.

The greatest theatrical heritage of any actor in Hollywood belongs to William Harrigan, who is appearing in H. G. Wells' "The Invisible Man," in support of Claude Rains.

Harrigan's professional ancestry reaches back 273 years in history beyond the French phantoms, the Davels, on his mother's side; while his father's part of the family boasts progenitors who entertained British royalty. The noted Braham family of Germany are included in the ancestry, and one member first staged the Gilbert and Sullivan operas in this country. Another first sang "God Save the King" in England at a public gathering. Generation by generation from one to five members of his direct line have been famous before the footlights without an interruption for almost three centuries.

Harrigan's father, Edward Harrigan, of Harrigan and Hart fame, was an important factor in the growth of the New York stage. He wrote over 50 successful plays and staged one of his own plays a year for 29 successive years, building four theatres as the city grew. "Old Lavender" is perhaps the best known of the Harrigan-Hart productions which are still remembered by Manhattan's "old timers," and the songs which characterized them, such as "When Poverty's Tears Ebb and Flow" were written by his mother's father, David Braham.

Lillian Russell was Harrigan's aunt, and his whole family tree is literally beading down with talent's rich fruit. He himself made his stage debut at the age of five, and departed Princeton to go with his father at 19.

A distinguished stage record on Broadway including "The Acquittal," "Polly Preferred," "The Dove," "The Great God Brown," "Moon in the Yellow River" and "Criminal at Large" has preceded his entry into motion pictures.

Besides distinction in theatricals, the actor is regarded as one of the nation's outstanding war heroes, being the captain in command of the Third Battalion of the 307th Infantry which rescued the famous "Lost Battalion" during the Argonne Forest engagement, the most romantic episode of the A. E. F.'s service record.

MAKING A MAN INVISIBLE

Black Magic Scorned

The mysterious disappearance of Jack Griffin, young chemist associate of elderly Dr. Cranley, puzzles the doctor, his daughter, Flora, who loves the missing scientist, and Dr. Kemp, another medical associate and rival for the affections of Flora. Griffin, who has been conducting secret experiments for some time, has left behind him no clues other than a scrap of paper on which the word "monocane" hints that this terrible drug, which is known to bleach and render animals insane, has been important in his experiments.

Meanwhile, the English country village of Iping witnesses the arrival of a strange, scarecrow-like looking man who puts up to the village inn, demanding absolute privacy. His face is swathed in bandages. The innkeeper cannot leave him alone and is assaulted. The police are called. Enraged, the queer stranger holds the amazed villagers at bay as he strips off his odd coverings, revealing emptiness—each garment seems to come from no bodily substance, until, still mocking them, he stands absolutely without outline—the Invisible Man!

Now that Universal has completed the filming of "The Invisible Man," coming soon to the King's Theatre, a studio spokesman—there are always several—explained why a period of more than two years was permitted to elapse between the purchase of the H. G. Wells story and its transfer to the screen.

The problem was how to photograph invisibility. The idea of an invisible man is all very well in a book, but motion-picture characters have to be shown. The technicians were consulted, as is the invariable rule. For once they could do little more than shake their heads. Camera men snored at the notion and the individual responsible for the purchase of the story wore a path in the carpet leading to the executive desk.

"Show the presence of the invisible man by spirit wires, moving books, chairs and other articles. Show him by suspending a coat, trousers and hat on a wire. Have a cloud of steam, or mist, or a shroud of something pass before the camera."

There were a few of the suggestions, but the verdict was "too obvious." It might have been done a few years ago, but not today. And so, for two years the problem was discussed while the precious story accumulated a few layers of dust in the vaults, or closets, or filing cabinets, or wherever it is that stories are kept.

But the invisible man has been photographed and the credit must go to James Whale, the director; Charles Edson, the photographer; and Jack Pierce, the studio makeup expert. After long experiment, they discovered the possibilities of small mirrors, arranged as the magicians employ them in creating optical illusions. The mirrors were tried and the problem was no more.

Claude Rains who "is the picture's invisible man," will be seen walking along, completely dressed and with a hat perched jauntily on what would be a head, if any head were there. On his deathbed his head and shoulders will be visible, but the rest of his body will be merely a dent in the covers. In another scene he will be shown disrobing and, as his clothes fall away, nothing but invisibility will remain.

There will even be some episodes where he will be totally invisible, both to his fellow-players and his audience. On first thought it would seem that this would be quite difficult to photograph than the scenes where only part of him is invisible. The naive question was put to Universal's oracle, who replied:

"Oh, no. Whenever he was totally invisible, the scenes were made without him. Mr. Rains simply had a day off."

Then, with a chuckle, the spokesman drew a few mirrors from his pocket and faded away.

CREAM OF BRITISH THEATRICAL TALENT

Appears In "The Invisible Man"

The cream of Britain's histrionic crop together with the most currently outstanding actors in Hollywood lend realism to the fantastic H. G. Wells drama, "The Invisible Man," which is coming to the King's Theatre.

Faced with the problem of translating the English author's startling novel into screen entertainment, James Whale, who directed "Frankenstein," "Journey's End" and other exceedingly tense screen dramas, spent over six months assembling the protagonists in this picture which has already caused the most talk and excitement of any film in recent years.

Claude Rains, who makes his screen debut in the uncanny character of the super scientist, was brought from triumphs in New York with the Theatre Guild to portray the most unusual and difficult part of Wells' tale. Fresh from successes in "The Man Who Reclaimed His Head" and "Too True to Be Good," Rains brought to the film a rich background of stage experience in London and New York.

William Harrigan was selected for the intensely dramatic role of "Dr. Kemp" because of his sensational rise to fame in powerful roles of "Criminal at Large" and "Moon in the Yellow River." Gloria Stuart's remarkable impression during her meteoric screen career won her the feminine lead with the difficult assignment of playing the sweetheart of an unseen man.

Henry Travers, veteran of London stage triumphs who recently scored with John Barrymore and Diana Wynyard in "Reunion in Vienna," and Dudley Digges, a New York stage favourite via London, lend further distinction to the cast of "The Invisible Man," while entrusted with the semi-humorous character parts which make this picture outstanding in this respect, as well as its bizarre effects, are Una O'Connor, beloved maid of "Cavalcade" and premier Irish screen star, Forester Harvey, imitable "cocky" actor and Merle Tottenham, also from the British Isles.

The locale of the weird play is in England which influenced Whale to select genuine English artists for the major cast assignments. "The Invisible Man" tells an amazing screen story of a scientist who succeeds in making himself invisible and then sets about to rule the world with his unholy power.

R. C. Sherriff, talented playwright of "Journey's End" fame, prepared Wells' novel for screening.

REUNION OF STARS

"The Invisible Man," H. G. Wells' weird story brings together three of the Theatre Guild's most prominent players, now become screen stars, and the Universal City sound stage where the Wells classic was being filmed was the scene recently of a most agreeable reunion of the three troupers—Claude Rains, Dudley Digges and Henry Travers.

Rains, who is making his screen debut in "The Invisible Man," came to Universal City direct from New York and many years of stage triumphs. Included among these were "The Man Who Reclaimed His Head," "The Constant Nymph," "Abe Lincoln," "The Millionaire," "Marco Millions," "Karl and Anna," "The Apple Cart,"

"Miracle at Verdun," "He," "The Moon in the Yellow River," and most recently "The Good Earth." While with the Theatre Guild, he appeared in many of their productions with Dudley Digges and this two became close friends. Digges was signed by Universal at the same time as Rains, but had to complete his role in "Emperor Jones" before joining Rains at Universal City for his role in "The Invisible Man."

Henry Travers completes the trio and is another of that famous acting institute to translate his talents from stage to screen. His work in the film version of "Reunion in Vienna" was beautiful. In "The Invisible Man" he has one of the most important roles.

Claude Rains and Gloria Stuart in one of the scenes from this thrilling picture "The Invisible Man."

In his escape, several villagers are badly hurt by the invisible man who in reality is the missing Griffin, secluded in the inn in an attempt to find his way back to visibility.

Dr. Kemp, alone in his sitting room, listening to radio reports of the country phenomenon, feels a thump on his shoulder. He sees nothing, but the voice of Griffin addresses him, relating how he discovered the formula of invisibility, and how when he was interrupted in his attempt to return to his normal self, he had decided to teach the world a lesson. He demands Kemp's aid as a visible partner to rule the world through an invisible campaign of murder and sabotage. Threatening to kill Kemp if he ever double-crosses him, he forces the terrified doctor to drive him at once back to the village where he murders the police inspector.

The whole country is now aroused, and the police marshal their forces against the invisible menace, who rests in Kemp's house. While Griffin sleeps, the horrified doctor phones Dr. Cranley, and then, defying the Invisible Man's warning, calls the police.

Flora, learning the truth from her father, insists on seeing Griffin. Her efforts to dissuade him are futile, as the man boasts of the power that is his. In the midst of their meeting, he spies the police surrounding the house, and escape through the cordon of officers after telling Kemp he will kill him for his treachery the next evening at ten o'clock.

A reign of terror ensues in the next several hours, as the Invisible Man makes his power felt. Trains are derailed, banks are looted and the money thrown in the streets; all who stand in his way are murdered. The police plan to trap him. Kemp, just before the sinister hour of ten, secretly departs alone in his car for the mountains. High in the dark hills he exults on following the Invisible murderer when a voice tells him to stop the car. The Invisible Man lies Kemp to the car and rolls it over a precipice, to crash in flames far below.

Exhausted at last, the Invisible Man is forced out of a barn. Tracks appear on the white snow. A pistol backs twice and the snow is strewn about with the fallen body of the Invisible Man.

In the hospital the dying Griffin calls for Flora, who arrives as his chemically-induced vitality and invisibility begin to weaken with his ebbing life. The invisible body of the Invisible Man is seen.

Our Own Review

"The Invisible Man," described as one of the most daring screen translations of H. G. Wells' novel, comes to the King's Theatre on Sunday, when Hongkong audiences will have the opportunity of seeing what the writer was privileged to see at a preview of this picture yesterday morning.

The picture may well be described as one with a thousand thrills, Claude Rains, as the "Invisible Man" gives a performance which may be matched with masters like the late Lon Chaney and Boris Karloff. In fact he is better in some ways, but it would not do to tell you all about the picture here for it will spoil everything when you do go and see it—and that you really must do for it is a superproduction in every sense of the word.

and as it does, a mist graduates into opaqueness, deepens into shadows and substance. At last upon the pillows lies a handsome face—dark and peaceful in death.

In short, the picture tells of a scientist who, after succeeding in conquering light and shadow to make himself invisible, attempts to rule the world and his efforts plunge the world into a frenzy of suspense and fear.

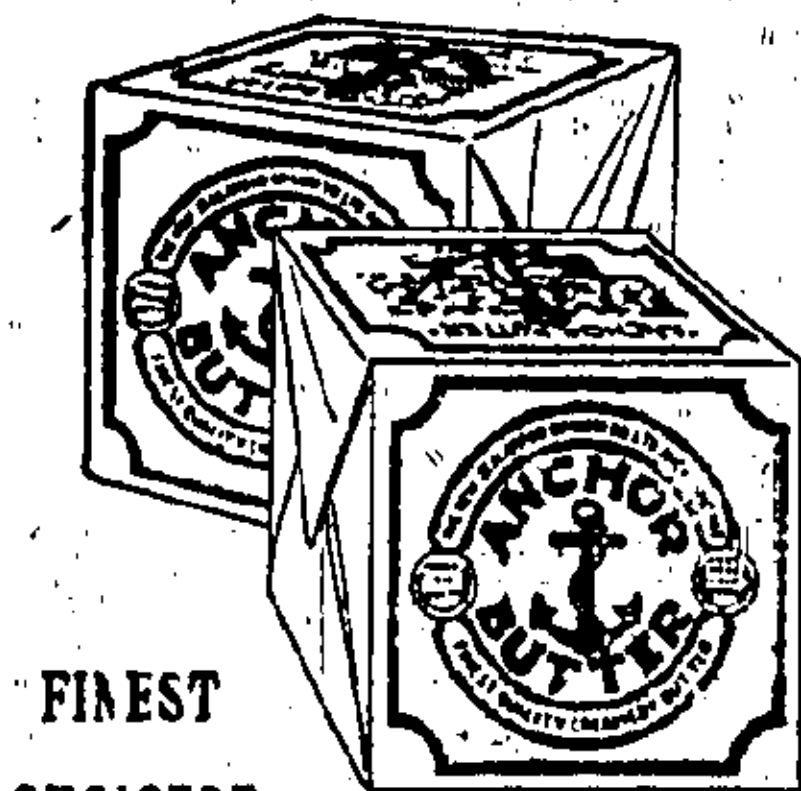

Thrills from the very first shot to the last fade out characterize this picture and what is more, it leaves one with the feeling of wanting to see this thriller over and over again, so fascinating it is throughout its entire length.

The management of the King's Theatre are to be congratulated on securing this "Thriller" for their patrons.

CHANGE YOUR MAKE-UP

When you have a new dress outfit, you obviously need to look to your powder and rouge; the same would perhaps not be successful. A very good plan is to have a second box of powder by you. You might have one either slightly lighter, or slightly darker in tone to your usual one. Change your rouge and lipstick, too.

For evenings, and for artificial light, make-up should be rather different, one should emphasise oneself a little more. A little lighter powder, more of it, and certainly more rouge is required.

When the skin gets rough, powder looks entirely different; get rid of the rough skin by massage with warm almond oil followed by a liberal application of nourishing cream—for a quick cure this should be done every day.

For skin which is over-red from exposure, always finish with a little green or mauve powder—and the ordinary powder shouldn't be too light, it gives an unhealthy mauve effect. 'High' coloured people require either a deep cream shade, or a pinky brown.

CHOCOLATE LOVER'S DELIGHT

8 tablespoons cocoa.
(or 2 squares bitter chocolate)
1 cup thin cream.
1 cup whipped cream.
3 eggs separated.
1 tablespoon gelatine.
1 cup cold water.
1 cup boiling water.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
1 cup granulated sugar.
1 teaspoon salt.
Soak gelatine in cold water 5 minutes; dissolve in boiling water. Add cocoa (or melted chocolate). Add salt to egg whites; beat very stiff; add well beaten yolks. Stir in the sugar then add chocolate mixture well-beaten. Beat all thoroughly. Add vanilla. Add thin cream; beat well; fold in whipped cream. Freeze. Beating with rotary beater option Yield 1 quart.

Dry skin needs a powder created on an oil base, and oily skin, one made on a spirit base. Try using liquid cream rouge before you put on your foundation cream; the result is a lovely smooth natural bloom.

POTTED MEAT

The many different kinds of potted meat and fish so easily obtainable nowadays are great stand-bys for most of us, usually only in the form of sandwiches. But the more adventurous will use them for something more substantial.

Stuffed hard-boiled eggs, for instance, can very well be flavoured with different sorts of meat or fish. Cold, in a bed of lettuce, they make an excellent supper dish, while they can be equally pleasantly served hot with an appropriate sauce.

A well-known egg-dish, Scotch Woodcock, can be prepared with anchovy paste, which is either spread on the toast under the scrambled egg, or even sometimes mixed with it. A mixture of chopped, hard-boiled egg, chopped fried onion, and anchovy paste heated together makes a good toast spread when well flavoured with cayenne pepper.

Now that we can no longer have our Angels on Horseback, we can try stuffing the little bacon rolls with potted meat or fish mixed with breadcrumbs and bound with yolk of egg, sardine and tomato paste being a specially good combination. It is better to bake the rolls than to try them, and serve them on little croissants and sprinkled with a suspicion of parsley or paprika pepper.

Another hot dish which can be improvised quickly, is a soufflé flavoured with fish paste, say, lobster; and quite good it is in an emergency. Experiments might also be made in mixing potted meat with a good batter, and dropping it in spoonfuls in deep oil, as might be done with a plain cream of rice flavoured with potted fish, formed into little croquettes and fried with a covering either of batter or of egg and fine breadcrumbs or crushed vermicelli.

... Tomatoes In A New Role

Have you ever heard of tomato jam?

Tomato jam is exceedingly popular in South Africa, but almost unknown elsewhere. It is a most healthful food and very easily made.

Select firm but ripe tomatoes; remove the skins after having immersed in boiling water for a minute or two.

Then quarter the tomatoes and add an equal weight of preserving sugar. Let this stand until the sugar is melted by the tomato juice. Boil slowly for an hour and a half, stirring gently as needed to prevent the mixture from burning.

This jam is delicious as soon as made, but improves when slightly aged.

... Recipe for Good Health

Here is the recipe for a tempting or sustaining health food.

Date fingers are made with two teaspoons of porridge oats, two teaspoons of flour, one teaspoon of brown moist sugar, one and a quarter teaspoons of butter.

Cream butter a little, add all other ingredients, and mould with hand into a smooth paste. Cut in two, roll each piece out thinly (same size). Put one pound sliced and cut dates in a saucepan with one cup of brown sugar and one cup of cold water and a little lemon juice.

Boil all together till soft. Cool slightly, then spread on one piece of pastry, cover with the other, press down edges. Put on to flat tin, mark in fingers.

Bake in moderate oven thirty-five minutes, cool and break. Will keep some time in airtight tin.

... Mushrooms An Inspiration

Mushrooms are never overlooked by the truly inspired cook. She knows how they add to the savour of a perfectly cooked meal.

All good housewives who appreciate the magic of mushrooms should now get busy with dishes for immediate needs and for the store cupboard.

Mushroom powder is excellent for winter use, and a good store should certainly be made now.

Four quarts mushrooms, two onions, ten cloves, 1/2 oz. powdered mace, two teaspoonfuls of pepper.

Peel the mushrooms and put them in a saucepan with the other ingredients. Shake over a fire until all the liquid is dried up, and then put in a moderate oven in shallow tins. Leave until quite dry and brittle, and then pound to a fine powder and put in an airtight bottle. This is excellent for stews and gravies, etc.

Mushroom fritters are made by simmering some mushrooms with a little lemon juice, thyme, garlic, and bayleaf, and then draining.

Have ready a batter and some lard for frying. Mix the mushrooms with a suitable quantity of batter and drop into boiling fat a spoonful at a time.

Mushroom turnovers. Fry in butter one pound of peeled mushrooms, and thicken the liquid with two eggs and a tablespoonful of cream.

Roll out some puff pastry, cut into oblongs, moisten the edges, put in a good layer of mushrooms and cream sauce on one half, and fold over. Bake in a hot oven for fifteen minutes. These are very good hot or cold, and handy for the picnic hamper or a buffet supper.

Strawberry Melon

Melon and strawberries make a lovely combination. Cut a piece from the top of a ripe cantaloup melon, scoop out the seeds and then the flesh, leaving the shell intact.

Sprinkle the inside, well with icing-sugar, and then fill it with alternate layers of strawberries and the flesh cut in small dice, each layer being sprinkled with more sugar.

Add a good glassful of Kirsch, replace the piece which was cut out, and keep on ice or in the refrigerator for two hours at least before serving.

Tomato Savoury

Here is a good summer savoury. Scoop out half a dozen tomatoes and put the pulp into a saucepan with a piece of butter the size of a walnut, a suspicion of minced onion, salt, pepper, a pinch of sugar and a clove. Cook together for a little and then pass through a sieve.

Add enough gelatine to set it not too stiffly, and then beat into it two tablespoonfuls of lightly whipped cream. Keep this cream mixture on ice with the tomatoes, and when you are ready, fill them with it and send them quickly to the table, sprinkled with a little chopped tarragon.

Bacon And Tomatoes

Peel a pound of ripe tomatoes, cut them in pieces and put them into a stewpan with one-third their bulk in fine bread-crumbs, a seasoning of salt, pepper, lime juice and chopped parsley, two ounces of butter, and a teaspoonful of very finely chopped onion. Stew over a gentle fire from fifteen to twenty minutes. Have ready some dainty fried pieces or bread half-inch thick and two inches wide, which have been fried a golden brown and well drained. Arrange these neatly on a very hot dish, pour the stewed tomatoes over, garnish with nicely fried bacon and serve very hot.

ROCKING CHAIR STUNT

This stunt because of its spookiness, will get lots of interest and attention. It consists simply of a rocking chair placed in one corner of your lobby where a concealed wire can be connected to it, this wire leading to an oscillating fan motor which will pull the chair giving it the appearance of rocking mysteriously. A book can be suspended over the chair at the height where it would be held for reading—thin piano wires being used for the purpose. Use a weird light over this display and signs around it reading: beware! he's here, but you cannot see him! don't disturb "the invisible man"—see him on the screen! H. G. Wells' fantastic sensation.

If you want to elaborate on this stunt, you can have a cupboard in a dark corner, with the dishes dancing around, pulled by wires. Or you can use a magnet under glass and have small articles moving around on a table.

Review

H. G. Wells' imagination, James Whale's direction and expert acting on the part of a large cast of distinguished stage and screen actors make Universal's "The Invisible Man," which is coming to the Queen's Theatre, the most striking picture seen in years.

How Universal managed to put this extraordinary story on celluloid remains one of the mysteries of Hollywood, because throughout all of the exciting reels, things happen so incredibly that one is prone to shake his head and blink his eyes to look again. Naturally, with such a wonderful idea and theme, beyond ordinary proportions was expected, but nothing so astounding as this uncanny film.

It's all about a super scientist who manages to make himself invisible by means of an obscure drug and then, half crazed by its effect, sets about to make the world realize his unlimited power. He does so in a graphic, startling manner, and strangely enough, there isn't a moment when the audience is not aware of the unseen man's presence on the screen, when he is meant to be there. Of course, being invisible, he is not actually seen, but how he is felt!

His wild course is so cleverly shown on the screen that it would be downright treason to describe it. And his fate is worked out in such a spectacular manner that memories of "The Invisible Man" are bound to linger long with those so fortunate to see it. Somehow the treatment given this weird tale by R. C. Sheriff, who is credited with the screenplay, makes the picture entirely reasonable and not fantastic in the least, and the expert characterizations lent by Claude Rains in his picture debut, William Harrigan, Gloria Stuart, Dudley Digges, Henry Travers, Una O'Connor and the Forester Harvey, enhance this effect of entirely logical occurrences, although the menace of the unseen is present always.

Undoubtedly "The Invisible Man" is crowded with genuine entertainment besides being a definitely new departure, a brand new idea, and a spectacular photographic achievement. You can't help but enjoy it, and we'll guarantee you such an evening of thrills as you've never had before.

Look Out For The New Dog "Star"

A new kind of dog star is to be seen in the forthcoming Edward G. Robinson production, "Dark Hazard," to take his place with the famous ones of the screen. Furthermore, he takes the title role in the picture.

Perhaps Dark Hazard hasn't the finesse of some of the more human personalities, but according to report he is destined to cause something of a sensation among legions of filmgoers who love dogs. He is a handsome racing greyhound, and a champion of champions on the tracks of many American cities. What is more, he can act.

Dark Hazard's real name is Bold Warrior, and he has won many important racing events. In his first talkie he displayed remarkable talent as a film artist, photographing perfectly and displaying undeniable camera poise. He even displayed a bit of temperament when Alfred E. Green was engaged on "shooting" him for one scene, and forced the director to supply him with a stand-in under the hot lights while the camera were being focussed.

Greyhound racing forms the theme of "Dark Hazard," wherein Robinson is a small town gambler who, when in reduced circumstances, buys the dog with his remaining dollars to see it ultimately win big track events. It is based on W.R. ("Little Caesar") Burnett's famous novel which was the American Book of the Month Club's selection last September.

IMPROVING DESIGN OF PROPELLERSImportant Results Of Research

Important marine research work is being undertaken by the National Physical Laboratory at Teddington.

A propeller tunnel of new design has recently been installed, and is now ready for observations. It will be used mainly to study the effect of cavitation on marine screws, and by this means to improve their efficiency under working conditions.

Investigations are also proceeding by means of the more familiar model method, and it has already been shown that the performance of a ship may be improved by as much as 10 per cent by careful design of the screws. This conclusion has not been reached by haphazard observations, but is the result of a careful calculation based on constants of electric motive power and unvarying sea conditions during the tests.

BUSTER KEATON
GROANS*Bad Luck Has Dogged
Him To London

Misery me! I have just left Buster Keaton, the frozen-faced comedian, who is, at the moment, twice as sad as he is on the films, and he has reason to be, writes a correspondent.

In a three-weeks boat trip from Hollywood, via Panama, he contracted ptomaine poisoning and injured his hand when a table overturned in bad weather.

And a few hours after his arrival at the Savoy Hotel in London, he inconsiderately awakened him.

He lay in bed and groaned, not the groan of a man pained with fate, but of one who accepts suffering as part of the normal day's work.

"I shall get up to-morrow," he moaned.
"This is my fifth trip to England. My first was in 1909, when I was at the Palace. The next was in 1918, when I had a few days here before going to France with the American Infantry.

JACKIE COOGANRomance With Actress Denied

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, July 25.
Jackie Coogan jocularly denied in Los Angeles on Saturday that he is engaged to Toby Wing, the blue-eyed blonde, who played in "The Kid From Spain" and "Forty-Second Street," and who is known as America's most perfect chorus girl.

Jackie admitted, however, that he is fond of his girl friend. Jackie Coogan, who is now 19, first figured in "The Kid" with Charlie Chaplin when he was four years old. Shortly afterwards he achieved further success in "Peck's Bad Boy," "My Boy," and "Circus Days."

He was then one of the highest paid film stars in Hollywood.

"I was over there seven months and it was not so funny."

He sighed, closed his tragic, expressive eyes, and rolled over to avoid the hot sunlight that sneaked between the curtains.

COWBOY

Ken Maynard Scores

Ken Maynard, the rangy Texas cowpuncher who will play at Central Theatre to-day in "King of the Arena" has become the most manly, romantic figure in western films. He is decidedly more than "just a cowboy," being the idol of millions all over the world, the most spectacular horseman of the films, and aviator of note.

Some of these days, he plans to go back to a ranch in Texas, or possibly Mexico, a land which interests him strongly, and tend his own herds again. Ranching and cowpunching is deep in the blood of this virile actor from the great open spaces. He was born next to the famous Madero Ranch in the Lone Star State and could literally ride before he could walk.

Right now he could earn his living with a horse, a rope and a blanket. If necessary, he would with his sturdy, white maned Tarzan for amount.

Maynard, with all his popularity and fame, surrounds himself to this day with his old cowpuncher pals of the range and later the circus riding days, when cowboys took a look at the world with the help of circus box cars. He's one of them—on the set around the stables. He couldn't and wouldn't get along without them. Maynard insists on correctness in his pictures and never allows a "double" to ride for him.

That's why this genuine, dyed-in-wool Texas range rider always looks a little upset when anyone calls him an "actor."

"Smile when you say that," his steady eyes seem to warn. But his voice protests. "I'm just a cowboy."

"BELOVED"A Struggling
Composer

The newest cycle of entertainment in the motion picture world is bringing back to the screen the romantic musical picture.

Though the revue type of "musical" has lately attained great success and again established the vogue of music on the screen, it has been a long time since the theatres have presented a picture which might be truly described as a "musical romance," exemplified on the stage for all time in "Milk and Honey."

The forerunner of the new vogue is "Beloved," coming on Friday to the King's Theatre, an epic drama with music which presents the romantic career of a struggling composer throughout his lifetime and before a constantly changing background covers a span of an entire century. In the first scene Boles is seen in his cradle as a baby, and in the final fade-out he appears as an old man of 96. Incidental to the story the screen presents stirring pictures of important historical events in the growth of the United States until the final scene takes place in the year 1933.

"Beloved," produced by B. F. Zeidman, was directed by Victor Schertzinger, and the cast supporting Boles and Miss Stuart includes Dorothy Peterson, Edmund Breese, Ruth Hall, Anderson, Lawler, Lucille La Verne, Richard Carle and many other screen favourites.

ECHOES OF 1861

49-A "Growl" At The Police.

The Police department stands almost without an excuse. Its hands are strengthened by strong preventive enactments which are decidedly un-English, if not unconstitutional. For instance, a Chinese suspected of being a thief can be arraigned as a rogue and a vagabond and unless he can give a good account of himself he can be placed on the chain gang and deported. Then at night every Chinese caught without a pass is arrested and locked up. If these wise and necessary preventive measures were properly applied, the colony would become denuded of thieves and burglars. The system however pursued is on the principle of "sufficient for the day is the evil thereof," and the gate is never shut until the horse is stolen. We never hear of property being traced nor gangs of thieves being hunted up. It is notorious that the thieves do congregate in huts about the mosque which is the most beautifully adapted spot for their trade conceivable. We see every encouragement extended to them, as they are allowed to build hovels "ad libitum" in that neighbourhood, where a policeman is seldom or never seen. We hear of Chinese being apprehended with house-breaking implements upon them and of their being set at large again with a very trifling punishment. Surely these men must be burglars and if so they should be treated as such!

Yet here we are hobbling along without a Chief Justice, and with neither the Chief nor the assistant Magistrate at his post. We have been quiet long enough, and if the Government will neither do anything when the Press is hushed, nor mend its manners when the Press is noisy, we may as well enjoy an Englishman's privilege of a growl.

We found occasion both last season and this season to censure certain proceedings connected with the Amateur Theatricals, and as we stated our reason very plainly for the position we took, we trust that we stand absolved from the accusation of grumpiness or from any imputation to mar sport. We can assure our readers that it is very much the reverse, and we simply eschew advocating our own cause in the matter, from the wish to avoid a repetition of the irritation which seems now happily to have passed away. At the same time, we must add, that insofar as we have ever been able to discern, we stated nothing but the rigid truth.

RE-OPENING THE STRAITS QUESTION

TURKEY DEMANDS REMILITARIZATION OF THE DARDANELLES

Another Problem For The League Of Nations

COPYRIGHT BY TRANSOCEAN.

The spectre of the Turkish Straits Question which was laid to rest by the Lausanne Straits Convention of 1923 is raising its head again. In the course of negotiations conducted behind the scenes in Geneva the Turkish delegate has put forward the proposal for a revision of the Lausanne Convention to the effect that Turkey be granted the right (denied her in the Convention) to fortify the Bosphorus and the Dardanelles. This would give her once more full and exclusive control of the narrow straits between Europe and Asia which have played such an important part in the world's history ever since Xerxes threw his bridge of boats across them in 480 B.C. to invade Europe.

The action taken by Turkey for the remilitarization of the Dardanelles zone explains to some extent the somewhat mystifying diplomatic activity which has been going on in South-East Europe during recent months and whose general tendency seems to be towards freeing the Balkan States from the tutelage of the Dominant Great Powers. Some people may consider it rather unkind to burden the League with still another complex and highly controversial problem at a time when that sorely harassed institution is desperately striving to solve the disarmament puzzle and the thorny Saar question while at the same time keeping a weary eye on the Far Eastern situation, the Gran Chaco dispute, and sundry other matters. There is, however, no denying that, from the Turkish standpoint, the reopening of the Straits issue is well-timed. While Russia and the Balkan States may be confidently counted upon to support the Turkish demand, the other powers are at present too much preoccupied with other matters to offer a strong and concentrated resistance to the proposed modification of the Straits regime. Great Britain is showing herself to be firmly opposed to any such modification but it is doubtful whether she will be able to prevent it in the long run. The Turks are not pressing the question at present and, according to last reports from Geneva, are satisfied to have it postponed till autumn, but they are not likely to drop it since they are deeply conscious of their hard-won independence and impatient to put an end to all restrictions of their sovereign rights on their own territory.

The Gateway to Constantinople. The great strategic importance of the narrow waterway connecting the Aegean with the Black Sea and forming the gateway to Constantinople (now officially called Istanbul) has made it one of the pivotal points of European politics during the past century. Although Turkey has been in actual possession of the Hellespont for centuries, the real opponents in the political game played during the last 80 years for the control of the Turkish straits were Russia and England. Russia wanted to oust the Moslems from the Bosphorus in order to gain free access to the Mediterranean, and England was determined to prevent Russia from realising this ambition because the British Government believed that the presence of a Russian fleet in the Mediterranean would constitute a menace to the Suez Canal.

Following the Crimean War, Russia was forced by the Treaty of Paris of 1856 to relinquish her project temporarily. Her attempt to remove the obstacle by her unilateral denunciation of this treaty in 1870 failed, owing to England's strenuous opposition. The 1856 Treaty of Paris proved, however, to be just another "scrap of paper" when the exigencies of the Great War caused England to conclude the Straits Agreement of 1915 by which Russia was assured full support of the Allies in the attempt to attain her goal of gaining of this agreement was prevented by the collapse of the Russian empire. The Treaty of Sevres, signed in August 1920, left Turkey nominally in control of the Straits but practically deprived her of all sovereign rights in exercising this control. The rejuvenated nationalist Turkey was soon able to break the bonds imposed by the Treaty of Sevres.

Right of Passage

The new treaty and Straits Convention signed at Lausanne in 1923 considerably modified the regulations dictated by the Allies at Sevres. The international Straits Commission created at Sevres was reduced to little more than a supervisory board under Turkish

DROWNING AT S.C.A.A.

"Death By Misadventure"

A bathing fatality at the South China A.A.'s pavilion at North Point on June 16 last had its sequel at the Central Magistracy yesterday when an inquest was conducted by Mr. Q. A. A. MacFadyen into the death of a Chinese youth named, Mo Wing Hong, a student of Wah Yan College.

The jury consisted of Mr. A. K. Munro (foreman), P. A. Netland and H. Jamall.

Evidence was given by Dr. Pringle of a post mortem examination which he had held on the deceased on July 17 at 9 a.m. He found that the cause of death was drowning. Death must have occurred about eighteen hours before the examination.

Dr. L. S. Shin of 35 Queen's Road Central said that shortly after 6 p.m. on July 16, he received a message while he was bathing at the Civil Servants' Bathing shed to the effect that there was an urgent case at the South China Bathing Club. He went, there and found a party of men attempting to revive someone by "artificial respiration." Witness and his brother (who was also a doctor) did what they could but could not revive the drowned man.

"The Last Swim"

Chang Hing Tak, another witness deposed that he had known deceased for a number of years and that their friendship began in British North Borneo. On June 16, they had gone together to the South China A.A. for a swim at about 2 o'clock in the afternoon. They swam together in each other's company for a while and then separated, but witness rejoined the deceased after half an hour or so. When witness had finished he asked the deceased to go in with him and change, but deceased insisted upon having one more swim. Witness saw him swim away and went in to change. Upon coming out of the changing room he looked for deceased but could not see him anywhere. He at once thought that his friend had been drowned because deceased was not a good swimmer and had upon certain occasions complained of being a sufferer of cramp.

Witness made a report to the office at the pavilion, and the lookout men were notified. They made a search but did not find anyone. A little while later, while witness was having a cup of tea the alarm was sounded that a body was seen. It proved to be that of witness's friend.

Leung Lai Sun, giving evidence said that when the alarm was sounded he and a couple of boatmen jumped into the water. The body was recovered and the face was of a livid colour. Having been a Boy Scout, he knew how to apply artificial respiration and did so but to no purpose. A couple of doctors arrived on the scene but nothing could be done for the deceased.

A boatman employed at the Club stated that his duty was to look after the swimmers and to go to the assistance of anyone who was in difficulties. He stated that swimmers arrived at the club at 7 a.m. and the last bathers did not leave until 11 p.m.

A verdict of death by "misadventure" was returned by the jury who added 8 shillings to the effect that the body was found at 11 p.m. in which boatmen were expected to watch the swimmers were too long for them, they being men who were expected to be observant.

management. Turkey was accorded the right to possess a fleet and to maintain a garrison at Constantinople. The demilitarized zones were reduced in area but they still comprised strips from 10 to 14 miles wide on either side of the straits as well as the islands Samothrace, Lemnos, Imbros, and Tenedos commanding the entrance to the Dardanelles. All fortifications in the demilitarized zones had to be destroyed. The freedom of navigation through the straits was guaranteed by Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan. These states were, moreover, conceded the right of passage for warships. No more than three warships of 10,000 tons each were permitted to pass through the Straits to the Black Sea in times of peace, whereas in the event of a war not involving Turkey the four powers may send an unlimited number of warships through the Straits. In case Turkey should be drawn into a war, she is accorded the right to bar the passage of hostile warships but may not obstruct the passage of

Around the Courts

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

The opening of the summary trial of Mok Ting Kwan (40) and Mok Kam Hing (21) on a charge of manslaughter was begun before Mr. R. M. MacDougall at the District Officer South yesterday.

The charge, which was formerly one of murder, involving the killing of Chan Man, a vegetable gardener, of Heung Che Village, on July 5, was reduced at the request of Mr. Lockhart-Smith, Assistant Crown Solicitor, who prosecuted.

Mr. Lockhart-Smith, outlining the case, described the events which led up to the visit of the two accused to deceased's hut on the morning of July 5, and described the "abandoning of deceased's wife, who took with her the youngest son."

It was said that deceased blamed the second accused, Mok Kam Hing, with abducting his wife, this accusation causing ill-feeling between the two families.

Following the visit on July 5 a "free for all" ensued, and it seemed established that the first accused struck the first blow.

It was a blow over the right eye with his fist.

The deceased grappled with the first accused, but did not strike him.

The first accused then took up a heavy rod and struck deceased, who was off the blow. The second accused, who had been standing outside the door of the matshed, joined the quarrel at this stage, picking up a hoe shaft and rushing in.

Cheng Yung, a friend of the deceased, intervened and hustled the second accused outside the matshed, later running for help.

Son Also Struck

Chan Yung, the eldest son of deceased, went to the assistance of his father, and was struck by the second accused. He then picked up a pitchfork and inflicted a slight wound on first accused's chest.

Chan Yung and Chan San, deceased's second son, both fled from the matshed, leaving their father alone with the two accused.

A moment later both accused were seen to emerge from the matshed, followed by deceased. After going about 15 yards, deceased sat down, and was struck again by the second accused, who then ran away with first accused.

Deceased was carried to bed in a helpless condition, and died shortly afterwards.

Following information, Detective-Inspector Doring, of Yau-ma-tei, set out for Chiu Tam Mei, and the two accused were overtaken walking towards Castle Peak. They were still carrying their weapons, and first accused had two large stones in his pocket.

Next day they were charged with murder.

Dr. Mackie gave medical evidence, after which Chinese witnesses were called.

The case was adjourned until this afternoon.

BROKERS' CLAIM

After a whole day's sitting yesterday, the case in which Mr. A. A. R. Botelho, broker, of Alexandra Building, sued Mr. Jose Choy Anok of the Banco Nacional Ultramarino of Macao for $703, was not concluded and was once more adjourned.

(To be Continued)

Plaintiff also claimed interest at the rate of seven per cent. from January 24 1933, to the present date.

DOG OWNERS FINED

Several dog owners appeared before Mr. Lee at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday to answer to summonses arising out of allowing their dogs to be at large without muzzles.

Mr. C. Gehring of No. 2 Stafford Road was fined $25 for allowing his dog to be unmuzzled in Waterloo Road at 10 p.m. on July 17.

Defendant stated that he had had the dog vaccinated by the S.P.C.A. and produced a certificate to this effect.

Mr. Lee said he could not take that as being official but if defendant could procure a similar certificate from the Colonial Veterinary Surgeon, he would deduct $8 from the fine.

Mr. G. Mogford of the Naval Dockyard, Kowloon was also fined $25 for allowing his dog to be unmuzzled at 9.15 a.m. on July 19.

Defendant pleaded that this dog had broken away from the lead as he was being led.

For failing to report the change of addresses of their multi-tals, Cheung Choy Shi, married woman, and Li Tong Shi, widow, were both cautioned by Mr. Hamilton at Central Magistracy yesterday.

It was stated that both multi-tals were found to be in very poor circumstances, but were exceptionally well treated.

Li Tak, unemployed, was brought before Mr. Hamilton charged with theft of clothing, valued at $150 from Mr. D. V. Stevenson of No. 55, Mount Parish, possession of a screw-driver and six keys fit for an unlawful purpose, and returning from banishment.

Accused admitted all the charges, and was sentenced to three months' hard labour on the theft count, fined $100, or two months, on the second, and sentenced to twelve months' hard labour for returning from banishment. The sentences are to run concurrently.

Six months' hard labour was the sentence imposed by Mr. E. W. Hamilton, at the Central Magistracy yesterday, on Chan Pang, unemployed, who admitted the theft of a leather purse containing a gold wrist watch from Tam Kin-wun, a bricklayer in Amy Street. The complainant was sleeping in the street outside his house, when defendant stole the purse by cutting his belt off.

Chan Wa, an opium carrier, was fined $2,000, or twelve months' hard labour, by Mr. E. W. Hamilton, at the Central Magistracy yesterday, for possession of 39 tals of prepared opium at the Wing On wharf. Revenue Officer Grimmit said defendant carried the opium covered over with live crabs in a large box.

For theft of 32 metal watches from the steamer Grootekirk valued at $80 in all, a Chinese was sentenced to one month's hard labour by Mr. Lee at the Kowloon Magistracy. The defendant was arrested with the watches in his possession a fortnight after the theft.

TOKYO'S CITIZENS UNEASY

Rice Merchants Announce New Increase In Price

Tokyo, Aug. 1. Uneasiness gripped the citizens of Tokyo to-day as rice merchants announced a new eight sen raise in the price of rice.

The boost, which will become effective to-morrow, is the sixth in recent months, and brings the cost of rice to a point 28 sen higher for every ten kilograms than it was at this time last year.

Mr. Tatsunosuke Yamazaki, Minister of Agriculture, announced at yesterday's Cabinet meeting that experts of his Ministry expected a five per cent. decrease in the 1934 rice crop in comparison with normal years.

HOW MICHAEL PINE WAS RESCUED

Borderers Men Commended In Court

Further evidence was taken by Mr. E. W. Hamilton at Central Magistracy yesterday in the case in which a Chinese named Ng Lok Yuen, "alias" Ng Yick Lam, "alias" Ng Yick San, aged 23, unemployed, is being charged with the murder of Michael Pine and with the attempted murder of Mary Pine, Tony Flood, Fay Bromley and Norman Stone by throwing them all into the Albany Nullah, near the Lower Peak Tramway Station on the afternoon of June 22.

Mr. J. A. Fraser, Assistant Attorney-General, appeared for the Crown, and the accused was represented by Mr. R. H. Kim, instructed by Mr. J. M. Hall of Messrs. Lyson and Hall.

Mrs. Lillian Maud Vincent told the Court that on the afternoon in question she was walking up the steps near the sentry box in Murray Path in the company of Mrs. O. M. Thompson when she saw a crowd near No. 3 bridge. She went to the scene and looked down into the nullah towards the tunnel where she saw a sailor's straw hat. She also saw a little boy in the nullah, whom she did not recognise. She then looked upwards and saw another little boy floating on his back. She recognised him as Michael Pine. He had a wound on the right side of the forehead, and appeared to be unconscious. He went on past the bridge and witness's attention was then drawn to a little girl who was following some way behind. She recognised her as Mary Pine, close behind the girl came a Chinese who was a good way above the bridge. Mary was going down the nullah, screaming and in a sitting position. She and the Chinese both passed under the bridge and then witness fell sick and did not see any more.

"In Sitting Position"

Later she saw on the other side of the sentry box, that Mary had been rescued. After that she and Mrs. Thompson walked down Murray Path right to the end where the tunnel was. There she saw a Chinese being brought from the tunnel. She recognised him as the man who came down the nullah behind Mary Pine.

Continuing, Mrs. Vincent said that she later saw a boy whom she did not recognise being brought up from the point just below the bridge. She now knew him to be Norman Stone. The Chinese was wearing white upper garment and black lower garment.

Cross-examined by Mr. Kim, witness said that the Chinese was in a sitting position, facing down the nullah when she first saw him. She did not notice any wound on his head. Before this incident, she had known Michael Pine and his parents for about three or four months.

Mrs. O. M. Thompson who was with the previous witness at the time of the incident, then gave corroborative evidence. She added that when she saw the Chinese she was under the impression that he was trying to save the girl as they were so close together.

Sergeant L. F. Gaywood, R.A.O.C., said that on the afternoon in question he was standing outside his bungalow in Murray Barracks when he saw Corporal Giles running past. He did not take much notice then but immediately afterwards his attention was attracted someone looking into the nullah. He went there and saw some people in the water near the mouth of the nullah. Mr. Bowles was then walking up the nullah with a little girl. Witness helped to pull them up. He then got a torch and went inside the tunnel as he heard that a boy was being washed down.

Fell Into Water

After walking a short distance he heard voices and turned on his torch. He found three soldiers and a Chinese there. The soldiers were holding the Chinese who was lying on his back. Witness took hold of his left wrist with the intention of raising it, but the Chinese attempted to bite his hand. He then suggested to roll him over on his stomach, taking a leg and hand each so that he could not bite. The man struggled and at one time managed to get his right hand free. As a result, he fell into the water and a struggle ensued but they picked him up again. Eventually the Chinese was taken out of the nullah and was given artificial respiration.

Pte. T. McCarthy of the South Wales Borderers testified that he went down into the tunnel with Pte. Simmons, and assisted in taking the Chinese out of the nullah.

Pte. A. E. Burgess, who was the first to give artificial respiration to the accused, said that when the man was taken out of the nullah he was unconscious, very limp and had a cut on the head.

Michael Rescued

Similar evidence was also given by Bandaman Glover who added that accused was suffering from the effects of swallowing water and shock. All his muscles were trembling.

The way in which Michael Pine was rescued, was then related by Pte. William O'Kelly who said that as soon as he heard that a boy had been washed down the nullah he ran down the Murray Path to Queen's Road where he met Pte. Sellers. Together they went to the V.R.C. where he saw a boy floating about twenty yards from where he was and about fifty yards from the mouth of the tunnel. He jumped into the water and caught hold of the boy who gave a groan. The boy had a deep gash at the back of the head and a swollen forehead. He later accompanied him to the Government Civil Hospital.

His Worship (to Mr. Fraser): This man and Pte. Sellers acted with commendable promptitude.

Mr. Fraser: Yes, and great presence of mind too.

Lance/Sergeant W. G. Giles told the court that he rescued one of the girls just outside the mouth of the tunnel.

Hui Wing Han, a "N.A.A.F.I." boy said that just as he caught hold of one of the girls he was washed away. The girl was later rescued by Mr. Bowles.

The case was then adjourned until 11.30 this morning.

SHORT AND SHARP GALE

Last Evening's "Blow"

A violent gale averaging a velocity of about 35 miles an hour swept over the Colony between half past six and half past seven last evening, but fortunately no serious damage was done.

Some of the rowing boats at the bathing sheds at North Point were swept away but they were later recovered.

Apart from the shattering of windows in some houses along the Praya, no serious damage was done by the gale, the junks and sampans alongside being unaffected.

The rainfall during this time was 0.10 inches.

COLLISION IN HARBOUR

A collision occurred in the middle of the harbour on Wednesday evening between the Michael Jensen and the Chian Lee which were going to their respective berths at the time.

The Michael Jensen was proceeding to No. A 10 buoy when she collided with the Chian Lee which was coming in from Canton, the latter being hit amidships.

The Swedish steamer received heavy damage to her bows while the Chinese vessel was badly crippled, several plates amidships on her starboard side being smashed.

Both vessels, however, were able to proceed to their berths unaided, but they, however, will have to dry dock for repairs.

The Michael Jensen is a vessel of 1,343 tons and is commanded by Capt. T. Thysen, while the Chian Lee (1,550 tons) is under the command of Capt. Ishit.

FERRY COLLIDES WITH SEA WALL

Excitement On "Electric Star"

Tremendous excitement was witnessed on board the Star Ferry launch, "Electric Star" yesterday morning at 11.15 a.m. The ferry ran straight into the sea wall at Connaught Road.

When it was obvious to the passengers that a collision could not be averted, there was tremendous excitement. Women screamed, and at least one fainted, while some of the men sprang from the upper deck on to the wooden railing at the ferry pier and clambered over.

Meanwhile the ferry came against the wall with a tremendous impact and damaged her bow to some considerable extent. After some ten minutes it was tied up at the pier where her damaged bows was an object of interest to those who saw her.

LANDSLIDE AT SHINGMUN

As a result of a heavy fall of earth, two coolies were buried alive at Shing Mun while another had to be sent to hospital with injuries caused by earth falling on him.

It appears that about 11.30 p.m. on Monday, a number of coolies were engaged in removing stones from the hillside when several tons of earth came down with a rush and buried two of them, named respectively Kang Lee and Pang Ping. Both were killed on the spot.

Another coolie, Yeung Tak-shing, received injuries when struck by falling debris, and was later sent to hospital.

YAUMATI FIRE

A fire broke out in No. 185 Shanghai Street, Yaumati on Wednesday night, causing injuries to a man and a woman who had to jump from the first floor to escape from being burnt to death.

The cause of the fire was apparently due to the careless throwing of a lighted cigarette-end or match.

As soon as the outbreak was discovered, the fire brigade was immediately summoned and within a short time succeeded in extinguishing it.

The extent of the damage has not yet been ascertained.

Nanking, July 28.—Acting under orders from the Central Political Council, the National Government has announced that the Office of the Special Commissioner for Foreign Affairs in Shanghai is to be placed under the direct control of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs (Chekiat Agency).

Another import and export merchant of India also applied to the Chamber by letter informing them of their desire of becoming sole agent for the local Chinese manufacturers of flash-lights, dry batteries, etc.

Many other firms from different countries also applied to the Chamber to recommend good markets for their various principal products. It was stated that replies to the above mentioned requests had already been directly sent.

Parking Places

During the meeting, the Secretary announced that the Chamber had recently received a letter from Mr. Yip Poon Sang, a representative of the Public Vehicles Association of Kowloon, requesting them to forward their petition to the Government about the abolition of some of the public vehicles' parking places and other affairs. It was finally decided that this matter should be at first handed over to the Executive Committee for consideration, before being submitted to the Government.

As to those members, who had failed to contribute their yearly subscriptions to the Chamber, owing to bankruptcy and departures from the Colony, it was decided by the Committee to extend the time for the collection of such fees.

GOVERNMENT AND MERCHANT SERVICE

The home papers give an account of a speech made by Mr. Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, on the state of British merchant shipping. He makes it clear that the perilous state of British shipping is not due to fair competition, but that the increase in the mercantile marines of some countries was due to the stimulus of subsidies. The idea at present is to ask the House to grant a subsidy of not more than £2,000,000 for vessels of the tramp class. The scheme will be one which will be carried out in conjunction with the shipowners.

There are various ways in which legislation can be introduced to benefit the merchant service. When one reflects upon protection of industries at home, it is possible to realise that the object in view is to give a means of living to the people of Britain. If a foreign

HEAT WAVE RETURNS

Canton Again Sweltering

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, Aug. 8.—After nice cool weather for more than two weeks, Canton to-day is sweltering with heat, as the thermometer is climbing up to 90 degrees Fahrenheit in the shade at 2 p.m. North-west and variable winds have increased the suffering from the heat.

In a way the recurrence of the heat wave and strong sunshine is welcomed by the farmers who fear that continuous rainfall will bring about a flood. Growers of lee chee and other fruits want sunny and hot weather to dry the fruits which are preserved for winter consumption.

Ice cream and cold drink parlours do more business in hot weather. Their season is limited. The boat people in Lee Chee Creek also yearn for hot and cloudless days, because more people will go boating under these conditions. Incidentally this brings business to those selling fruits, ice cream, and congee on the river.

The local observatory predicts that the weather will be hot for the next forty-eight hours. The municipal, military, and Police authorities are glad that their anti-heat precautions and regulations can be used now. Last time they formed all sorts of plans to cope with the heat, but immediately after the precautions were announced, a cool spell arrived and drove mercury down to 75 degrees Fahrenheit.

Rickshaw passengers are advised not to ask the pullers to run fast, because the "human horse" is liable to faint in the heat if running too fast, and the rickshaw may be overturned, involving injury to the passenger.

The free tea stands in street corners and matched shades are giving relief to the coolies, carriers of heavy weight, rickshaw pullers, and hawkers.

manufacturer wishes to sell his goods in England and those goods are heavily protected then that manufacturer must set up a factory in England. British labour and materials are employed and the problem is solved to everybody's satisfaction. The people of the country are gaining their wages, and the manufacturer is earning money from the capital invested. It can matter little to the British whether they buy a Ford car or an Austin provided that both are manufactured in Britain. It is this problem amongst others that should be one of the most important for resolution in the case of the merchant service.

We have on various occasions pointed out in these columns that the Red Ensign has been misused. It is to be hoped that the giving of subsidies will at the same time increase the employment of British seamen, although shipping in the East must naturally continue to use local labour to a great extent.

If foreign ships are to be allowed to seize the coastal traffic of Britain, it can be of no interest to the British seaman if British industry goes bankrupt. Its progress carried in foreign bottoms would not benefit him, even if covered by the British flag.

In the Far East presumably some of those companies who have for so long been carrying a struggle against great odds, will wish to participate in the scheme. Conditions of subsidising should be accompanied by definite legislation that ships should be efficient and run for the benefit of the British sailor as much as for the benefit of the owner. This has been realised by most companies out here, but perhaps if anything is done the opportunity will be taken to assure the object of the scheme put forward by Mr. Runciman. These objects were twofold. First to reduce the amount of surplus ships which at present flood the market and depress freight rates whenever these show a tendency to improve, and second, to maintain the high standard of efficiency, which on the whole has characterised cargo fleets in the past.

This would be the moment for the Government to institute a local board to look into the question of the efficiency of all ships leaving this port flying the British flag. Anyhow it is to be hoped that where it is known that cases of negligence have occurred in companies that steps will be taken to control very carefully the working of the subsidies.

COOK BEATEN TO DEATH

Unwelcome Attention Resented

Resenting the amorous attention of a cook named Lo Wai, aged 35, whom she alleged had embraced her in the kitchen of No. 12, Lee Yick Street, U Long Old Market yesterday afternoon, a woman named Sin Cheung informed four of her male acquaintances who were roused to such indignation by the cook's alleged act that they set upon him and beat him so severely that he collapsed and died while on his way to the police station.

According to a police report, the four men were sitting in the house when the woman came out of the kitchen and told the men the incident, whereupon they assaulted the cook. After they had done so, they took him to the police station but while on the way the man collapsed and died.

The four men immediately ran away and have not yet been arrested.

VINES TO PLAY TENNIS HERE?

May Visit Colony With Barnes

It is reliably learned in tennis circles here that the Chinese Recreation Club have received a letter from Khoo Hoo Hye, Hon. Secretary of the Shanghai Lawn Tennis Association, enquiring whether it is possible for Hong Kong to stage Ellisworth Vines and Bruce Barnes, American professional tennis players, in exhibition matches here next month.

It is anticipated that the C.R.C. will hand the matter over to the Lawn Tennis Association, who will decide whether it is possible to meet the financial demands of the intending visitors.

Vines was formerly the World's champion player. In Hong Kong the name of Bruce Barnes is but slightly known, but he is recognised as a very fine young player in America. During his career he has held the doubles championship of America but when Tilden formed his famous group of players, he turned professional and joined his compatriot.

PROPERTY OF PRINCE OF PLESS

No Bidders At Auction

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1893. Received, August 8, 7.30 p.m.)
Kattowitz, August 8.

The auction following the foreclosure of the property belonging to the Prince of Pless has resulted in a fiasco. The stocks of coal valued at 245,000 Zloty were unsold because there were no bidders. It is expected that the same result will follow when the furniture from the several Pless castles are publicly offered on August 10.

COMMUNISTS IN FUKIEN

Cantonese Defences Strengthened

From Our Special Correspondent

Canton, Aug. 8.—The military authorities here have sent 440 recent graduates of the Yn Tong Military Academy to strengthen the Cantonese forces at Shang Hang, Wu Ping, and Yung Ting, towns in South-western Fukien owing to Red activities in the eastern districts.

It is believed in military circles here that the Communist incursions into Fukien is primarily to obtain salt, foodstuffs, and general provisions, and that after the supplies have been obtained they will return to the Kiangsi-Fukien borders. In this event, the Cantonese troops have to guard the Kwangtung-Fukien borders.

At the same time, the Cantonese garrisons at Tai Pu and Yew Ping are instructed to take strict precautions against the onslaught of the Communists, because these towns are near the Fukien borders.

General Chiang Pen Cheng, representative in Canton for the Military Affairs Commission, has requested the high military command here to send troops from South-western Fukien to join the Nanking forces in attacking Chang Ting, the Communist stronghold in Western Fukien very close to Kiangsi.

Chinese newspapers here declared that General Chiang Kai Shew, Chairman of the Military Affairs Commission, has requested the Kwangtung and Kwangsi troops to attack Yu Chin, Hwei Chang, and Yu Tuh in Eastern Kiangsi and has also instructed the north route anti-Red forces to attack Shih Cheng, Ning Tuh, and Nan Feng.

Communists were active in Canton during the past few days. Seven young Reds were reported to have been arrested and executed during the week-end. The police are instructed to keep a sharp watch on reactionaries and radicals who are out to create troubles, taking advantage of the turn of event in Fukien.

Generals Yu Han Mou and Li Yang Ching, commanding officers of the 1st group army anti-Red columns, are scheduled to return to the front sometime next week. The front south of Kwan Mun Ling in Southern Kiangsi is quiet.

ARREST OF GREEK SAILORS

(Special to "Hong Kong Daily Press")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1893. Received, August 8, 4.30 p.m.)
London, August 8.

Twenty policemen and some officials of the Home Ministry boarded the Greek steamer "Mount Ossa" at Brixham on Tuesday and at the request of the captain arrested fourteen Greek sailors who, it is alleged, had staged a mutiny. They had demanded the same pay as British sailors which was granted them. In addition they demanded allowances for provisions and finally craved for permission to set up a sailors' committee which is to be given the same status as that of the captain. The captain sent a wireless message to the owners in Athens and also ordered the arrest and repatriation of the mutineers and despatched fourteen substitutes.—Transocean Kuo Min.

HINDENBURG FUNERAL SCENES

Crowds Await Opportunity For Last Look

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Tannenberg, Aug. 7.

The most impressive and grandiose funeral ceremonies ever held by the German nation in honour of a national hero reached its final climax on Tuesday afternoon when after Hitler's funeral oration, eight officers lifted the coffin containing Hindenburg's mortal remains from the catafalque in the centre arch of the Tannenberg monument, and amid the thundering of the last salute of 101 guns, bore it to the "Tower of the Commander" where the body will lie in state for two weeks and be the goal of pilgrimage of hundreds of thousands of Germans from all parts of the Reich, anxious to pay a parting tribute to the dead President-Field Marshal. While the officers were carrying the coffin slowly towards the tower, the band played the march of the Third Guard Regiment in which Hindenburg for many years served as Colonel.

AT THE TOWER

After the coffin had been placed on the catafalque in the tower, the members of Hindenburg's family accompanied by Hitler, Field-Marshal von Mackensen, Reichswehr Minister von Blomberg and many other high officers entered and remained for some minutes in silence before the sarcophagus. The guests of honour then slowly filed through the tower whose base had been transformed into a crypt, and subsequently the vast crowd of mourners who had attended the ceremony outside the walls of the monument were given permission to enter to bid the dead leader a last farewell.

It is estimated that more than 200,000 people witnessed the ceremony but since only 4,000 could be accommodated within the walls of the monument, the overflow crowds were stationed outside, most of them in the adjoining Hindenburg stadium where every detail of the funeral rites was transmitted to them by means of loud speakers while at the same time the ceremony was broadcast all over the world. All the space within the walls of the monument was taken up by the guests of honour who included all leading personalities of the Reich's Government, many high officers of the old Imperial Army as well as the present day Reichswehr and the Navy, the diplomatic corps and the special delegates of the Foreign States, leading cities, churches and various veterans of other organisations, many leaders of the Stormtroop formations and others.

KALEIDOSCOPIC SCENE

The civilians appeared in full dress to whose sombre black, the var-coloured uniforms of army officers and the Stormtroopers as well as the gold embroidered gala uniforms of the diplomats formed a striking contrast. The brilliant spots of colour in the kaleidoscopic scene were the English General, Sir Ian Hamilton, in a scarlet uniform of the Highlanders, the Austrian General in bright green tricorn, the Egyptian Ministers richly embroidered on the mantle topped by blood red fez, the sumptuous diplomatic uniforms of the Chinese officials, and the Hungarian Minister, von Mastervich who appeared in a resplendent historical costume of a Hungarian magnate.

Following the final rites the Flag Company bearing the Regimental colours of all units participating in the battle of Tannenberg was the first to make the exit from the great stone circle monument.

As the guests of honour began to stream out of the western gates, a multitude which were unable to gain earlier admittance began to enter from the east patiently to await the opportunity to bestow a glance and last wishes on the great soldier resting in the base of the "commander tower."

Since the mass of these visitors was estimated to be near 200,000, it is expected that at least two days will pass before the mighty stream ceaselessly filing into the Marshal's death chamber, will diminish.

MINOR CEREMONIES

Berlin, Aug. 7.

Germany's capital bade farewell to the Field Marshal-President on Tuesday in countless minor ceremonies and one all-embracing minute total silence when the metropolitan traffic clattered to a halt and the pedestrians simultaneously stopped with bared heads and bells began their mournful tolling from every belfry in Berlin.

In schools here, as throughout the nation, the children assembled to listen to the broadcasting of the State funeral rites in Tannenberg. Throughout the day, thousands filed through the auditorium of the town hall where hangs a monumental portrait depicting Hindenburg assuming his presidential dignities.

Huge crowds gathered in many public squares to hear of the Tannenberg ceremonies broadcast by giant loudspeakers stationed there. A sixty-second pause of public mourning was observed as well as throughout the entire Reich while abroad every German vessel in port or at sea, funeral services will be held at the hour of Hindenburg's burial. In Poznan, the former German City of Posen, where Hindenburg was born in 1847 as the son of a Prussian officer—flags on the military barracks were set at half-mast on Tuesday in honour of the Reichswehr's burial but otherwise the city took little notice of the event. The German consulate was closed its members having gone to Tannenberg to attend the funeral ceremonies. German-owned business houses and factories gave their employers an opportunity of listening to the broadcasting of the rites in Tannenberg. The house where Hindenburg was born and which is situated in the old quarter of the city has been the object of interest of many visitors since the President's death but it still stands simple and unchanged, no tablet indicating that his great public career had its beginning here. TROOPS ENTER KASHGAR

Consulate Anxiety Relieved

Simla, Aug. 8.

Four hundred Chinese and two thousand Moslem troops entered Kashgar, commanded by General Kung Chen-han, head of the peace commission from Urumchi.

Their arrival brought much relief to the British Consulate which, owing to the depredations of the marauding bands was in a somewhat precarious position since the defeat of the Tungan rebels.

Other White Russian troops are reported to have arrived at Aksu. Masabashi aeroplanes are expected to reach Kashgar shortly and small garrisons are being posted by the Chinese in the direction of Yarkand.

Strong evidence of persistent Soviet support for the Chinese transpires from the fact that the Russian Consul-General was the intermediary in the negotiations after the defeat of the Tungsans, and furthermore that General Ma Chung-yung was subsequently escorted across the Russian Frontier by Russian Consular Guards. DROUGHT HAVOC IN AMERICA

Intolerable Suffering By Man And Beast

Washington, Aug. 8.

Havoc and distress wrought by the prolonged and widespread drought constituted by far the most pressing and serious problem confronting the Administration, according to Mr. Lawrence Westbrook, Assistant Federal Relief Administrator, who gave President Roosevelt a grave and tragic account of the situation during the President's homeward journey across America.

Mr. Westbrook told President Roosevelt that the damage had increased fourfold since Congress adjourned in the middle of June. Over sixty per cent. of the agricultural sections of the country are now officially tabulated as acutely drought-stricken, while twenty-six million people are victims of the calamity, nearly four hundred thousand families receiving Federal Relief in twenty States.

The Federal authorities opine that at least ten per cent. of the families will need to migrate to more fertile regions if they are to have a chance to regain their economic independence.

The Federal Emergency Relief Administration are at present setting up organisations in twenty states to assist farmers to move to better land, while Federal Land Banks are affording liberal credits to farmers.

Mr. Westbrook estimated that between seven to ten million head of cattle will need to be killed in the drought-stricken areas.

The new heat wave is causing intolerable suffering to man and beast at Wayside Station where President Roosevelt addressed farmers from an artificially cooled carriage. The temperature in the shade touched 113 degrees. Reuter.

LOOKING AHEAD IN LOCAL RACING

NEXT BIG EVENT FOR SUBSCRIPTION GRIFFINS VERY OPEN

Classic Hall And Cavalcade Appeals

(By "OBSERVER")

[The following article which deals with the first of the subscription griffins' classic during the second half of the racing season is contributed by one who is in close touch with local racing.]

The first Race Meeting under the auspices of the Hong Kong Jockey Club for the second half of the year will be held on September 22, when the main event on the card "The Subscription Griffins' Autumn Plate" over one and a quarter miles will be staged. This race will be combined to Subscription Griffins of this season and the weight is 145 lb. with 1 lb. penalty for every $200 or part thereof won in stakes since January 1, 1934. It will undoubtedly draw a good field as the winner is to receive $750; Second $300; Third $200.

Tiny Star, the best sub of the season, has earned $4,397 which means that he has incurred 22 lb. penalty for the above race and this added on to 145 lb. will bring his weight to 167 lb. Cavalcade who has won $3,242 will carry 162 lb. and Copper Idol who has to his credit $2,825 will have to draw the scale at 160 lb. Classic Hall has won $2,225 and is to shoulder 157 lb. I append below a list of weights to be carried by the following:

Stakes	Won	Penalty	Weight
Bold Commander	$ 850	5 lb. plus 145	150 lb.
Chesterfield	1,050	6 "	151 "
Chow Fan	1,375	7 "	152 "
Dancing Butterfly	1,500	8 "	153 "
Hell for Leather	700	4 "	149 "
In Good Time	1,625	9 "	154 "
Panama	1,350	7 "	152 "
Sarabande	1,400	7 "	152 "
Soldier of Fortune	600	3 "	148 "
Soldier of Italy	925	5 "	150 "
Surprise	1,786	9 "	154 "
The Bodega	850	5 "	150 "
The Carp	850	5 "	150 "
Young Chap	1,375	7 "	152 "

The weights as enumerated above are in accordance with the conditions of the race as framed by the Stewards.

NINETY PONIES IN MACAO

During the races, a good many ponies were sent over to the Portuguese Colony for grazing and I understand that at one time or another, there were as many as 90 odd ponies in Macao. All of them are on the fat side and trainers will have some job to get them into condition. There is no exaggeration in saying that it was due to the good environment that all the ponies had summered so well.

TINY STAR NOT FANCIED

Let us turn to the main event, namely, The Sub-Griffins Autumn Plate. I expect there are many people who think that Tiny Star should annex this race without any difficulty in view of his past performances but I am afraid that his chances for the main event are very remote due to the heavy penalties imposed and in fact if he does run into a place, it will certainly surprise me.

In the Blue Pool Handicap over a mile, the Official Handicapper called upon Tiny Star to concede 14 lbs. to Copper Idol and the latter won by 2 1/2 lengths in easy fashion and on the bit. Tiny Star did not give a disappointing display as he had to shoulder 168 lbs. and finished second, two lengths in front of Young Chap 157 lbs. who was third. At a subsequent outing in the Sub-Griffins Spring Handicap over one and a quarter miles, Copper Idol 155 lbs. carried home by 2 1/2 lengths ahead of Warrington 159 lbs. who secured a verdict of "A Race" against National Day 155 lbs. Third, Tiny Star carrying 169 lbs. finished at the rear and since then had not appeared in public. In this instance Copper Idol had only a pull of 8 lbs. and it was expected that Tiny Star could turn the tables, but failed badly. However in the forthcoming event, Tiny Star has to carry 167 lbs. against Copper Idol 160 lbs. and I am afraid this will be a big problem to Tiny Star, who to be in the fighting line must have a pull of at least 5 lb.

TWO STRONG CLAIMANTS

The gentleman in charge of handing out the weights allotted Copper Idol 168 lbs. and Cavalcade 158 lbs. in the Pineapple Handicap over one and a quarter miles and had the two ponies been assessed at even poundage, the finish would have been much better. As it was, Cavalcade won by 2 lengths and in Good Time, carrying 140 lbs., was 3 lengths in front of Copper Idol who could only collect third prize money. The weight was telling on Copper Idol at the end and it seems this pony can be rated on the same level as Cavalcade. Copper Idol was late in coming to form but nevertheless he had the satisfaction to trounce many good old Subs such as Warrington, National Day, Bistre, Gay Butterfly, Partnership and Racing Boy in the Sub-Griffins Spring Handicap, and paid $177 to win. Mr. Harriman certainly deserves a tap on the back for his fine riding. In the Tai Wan Bay Handicap, ridden by Novices) from the 2 Mile Post once round and in Classic Hall 154 lbs. with Mr. Tang Man Wa up beat Cavalcade 155 lbs. with Mr. Yue Shun Wa up, by 1 length and the time of this race was 2:19; the last mile being 2:06 2/5th. Cavalcade 158 lbs. (Mr. Deitz up) won the Pineapple Handicap (1 1/4 miles) in 2:40 1/5th and the last mile was covered in 2:07 4/5th. It would be worth noting that in this instance Cavalcade was carrying 4 lbs. more than Classic Hall and the time was worse by 1 1/2 seconds. Therefore to adjust this difference in time, I am of the opinion that there should not be any difference in weight between Cavalcade and Classic Hall. In the early part of my notes, I rated Copper Idol and Cavalcade to be on the same level and Classic Hall can therefore be in the same category.

A PREDICTION

At even weights between the three ponies, it would be a matter of "Joss" to pick out the winner but their weights in the Sub-Griffins' Autumn Plate are as follows:

Copper Idol	160 lbs.
Cavalcade	162 "
Classic Hall	157 "

It will be observed that Classic Hall has a pull of 5 lbs. against Cavalcade and 3 lbs. against Copper Idol and the order of the finish which I trust will be found in the frame will be as follows:

Classic Hall	Copper Idol	Cavalcade
--------------	-------------	-----------

As to outsiders, Surprise might do it. Surprise, as it has been named, has not only surprised me but all racegoers as well. It would be incredible to

LOCAL TENNIS LEAGUE

Postponed "C" Division Games Played

Two postponed "C" Division games in the Lawn Tennis League were played in Kowloon yesterday, when the Clubs took advantage of the fine weather prevailing to get rid of their fixtures already in arrears, and just in time as soon after both encounters had been completed the weather broke.

At the Kowloon Dock courts, the home club drew with the Deutscher Klub with 4 sets each—a unique occasion—C. E. Millard and A. Duncan, the Docks' first ranking pair winning all three of their encounters in great style.

At King's Park the Craighower Cricket Club beat the Club de Recrio by 6 sets to 3, when some very close encounters were witnessed.

Y. C. Mok and D. Leonard were a promising pair, but the latter's erratic strokes failed to combine well enough with Mok's steadiness, to pull them out of the rut they fell into in their second set encounter.

H. Howard and A. B. Hamson were the mainstay of the visiting team and it was through their efforts that the team left the courts winners, for in their last set encounter being 4-5 down they pulled up to take the set at 7-5.

CURRENT NEWS FROM CHINA

SWATOW NOTES

Property Transfer Prohibited

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Swatow, July 30. We have just had locally a sample of that "anti-foreignism in Canton" of which your Canton correspondent wrote in a recent communication.

A few days ago there appeared in the local press a despatch from the Finance Bureau at Canton to the mayor in which it is stated that a deed of "perpetual lease" of land carries with it no right to the holder of the lease to transfer the property by sale to another party. This is, of course, a denial of the right of any foreigner ever to dispose-by sale-of any land of which he is in possession.

This ruling of the Finance Bureau is professedly based on some regulations which were issued by the provincial government some years ago, but were certainly not at the time understood to carry this interpretation, and in any case have never been recognized by any of the foreign countries, and it is not the least likely that it will be accepted now.

The immediate reason for this despatch was an attempt by the English Presbyterian Mission to buy from a Chinese who is a British subject, a tract of foreshore land to the east of the town with the object, it is understood, of transferring to it their hospital and some of the rest of their plant. Their present compound which was originally filled-in foreshore, is now well in the middle of the business part of the town, and is in the way of being cut up by new municipal roads. It is a site that is of great value for municipal developments, and it might seem to be a sensible policy for the authorities to facilitate transfer instead of blocking it.

The local municipality indeed passed on to Canton the request for the issue of a new deed without any objection on their part, and it is responsible for making the trouble.

EMIGRANTS RETURNING TO KWANGTUNG

Government Plan Of Assistance

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, August 8. With the heavy influx of returned residents to Kwangtung from various parts of the world, the Provincial Department of the Interior has drafted four regulations whereby these jobless emigrants will be given work.

According to this plan, the able-bodied emigrants will be drafted to construct highways or dredging rivers. The number of these returned residents is kept on file by each town or county, and this work is to be done by officials without additional salary.

If the overseas Chinese have capital, the county government or municipality will assist them to invest the money in productive enterprises to be recommended by the county government or municipality which has to give due pro-

UNIVERSITY'S SCHEMES

Progress Report

Canton, August 7.

The joint weekly memorial service held yesterday in Chungshan Memorial Hall was attended by over 2,000 government officials and representatives of public bodies. Mr. Chow Lu, member of the South-west Political Council and concurrently Chancellor of the Sun Yat-sen University, presided and reported on the University's schemes of development.

In the first part of his report, Mr. Chow told the audience that during the past two years the University authorities have been pushing forward in carrying out the 8 year scheme—of construction of new premises at Shekpi. According to Mr. Chow, the works which have been completed during the first stage of the scheme include the statue of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, the experimental grounds for grains and mulberry-tree plantation and silkworm rearing. As most of the new college buildings are ready for occupation, the agriculture, the engineering, and the law faculties will be moved to Shekpi this month.

Mr. Chow next referred to the terms in the contracts to be made with professors and lecturers. He said that they will be on long term contracts and required to give full time to the University.

In order to avoid wastage of time and red tape, Mr. Chow said, a joint office will be provided for the heads of various departments. As meetings among them are frequent, it is much more convenient for them to discuss plans of improvement.

Turning to the financial condition of the University, Mr. Chow said maintenance expenditure amounted to $300,000 per month and the University is facing financial difficulty, but equal distribution among all departments is being made with satisfactory results. The accounts of the University are open to public inspection by issuance of monthly statements.

The University authorities are not slow to encourage productive enterprises. The Agriculture College has over 100,000 mow of land set aside for agricultural experiment and over 2,100,000 mow for afforestation. Besides experiment, the land has been used for productive enterprises. In the recent years, a number of various kinds, including pine, fir, bamboo, eucalyptus, and trees of fruits such as lichee, pineapple, wongpoo, banana, and others have been planted. It is expected that a very handsome amount of income may result in the course to contribute to the maintenance expenditure of the University.

After the University is removed to Shekpi, all students and faculty members will be required to take lodging there, Mr. Chow said. Besides efficient administration that is aimed at, strict discipline among the students will be maintained in order to make them good citizens of the country. Mr. Chow also said that steps were being taken to remove the bad impression that new students were admitted through influence. New students will be admitted after they pass the entrance examination only, he emphasized.

In the last part of his report, Mr. Chow declared that a very good impression had been created upon foreign friendly nations by the progress of the University. Recently the German Alexander Humboldt Association offered the students a free scholarship to study in Germany, and the British Consul requested the Boxer Indemnity Commission to appropriate a part of the Indemnity Fund for the construction of the new buildings. Besides the American Boxer Indemnity Commission has offered to create a chair to the Agriculture College of the University. (Central Press)

At the same time, the county or city government should engage emigrants in factories and works operated by the county administration or municipality.

It is also suggested that overseas Chinese should be given work in developing barren lands or in forestry and agricultural stations. Similar arrangements were announced some time ago, and it is necessary now to put these measures into effect.

DAIREN PARLEYS

Mr. Ying Tung Makes His Reports

Hangchow, July 28.—Mr. Ying Tung, Managing Director of the Peiping-Liaoning Railway, who arrived here from Shanghai by the night express last night, motored to Mokanshan this morning to see General Huang Fu to report to him on the outcome of his discussions with the Japanese officials at Dairen. Mr. Ying is reported to have succeeded in reaching an agreement with the Japanese authorities regarding the settlement of the miscellaneous issues in the Luantung Demilitarized Zone and it is hoped that General Huang may be persuaded to return to his post at Peiping.

As regards the report that General Chiang Kai-shek has telegraphed to General Huang inviting him to come to Kuling for a visit, it is learned that General Huang is still hesitating in reaching a decision regarding the matter. Whether he will proceed there or not, it is said, will depend upon the report of Mr. Ying Tung as to the results of his Dairen parleys.

According to information from Shanghai, Mr. Wang Ke-ming, Director of the Finance Department of the Peiping Political Affairs Readjustment Commission, is also coming to Hangchow today on his way to Mokanshan to see General Huang. However up to the evening, he has not yet arrived, but he is expected to be here by the night express. Mr. Wang will submit a report to General Huang on the latest developments in the situation in North China. (Chekiat Agency)

A REIGN OF TERROR

In Luantung Area

Peiping, July 28.—A little village by the name Tapsyuan in the vicinity of Shanhaikuan was raided and completely looted by an organized band of bandits on the 25th inst., according to belated information from Shanhaikuan to-day. None of the 500 houses which composed of the village escaped the pillage and the plight of the victims is most pitiful, the information states.

The bandits are reported to have occupied the Hsiao-hoing village near Shanhaikuan and their raiding parties are terrorizing the various districts in the Luantung Area. Owing to its restricted number and lack of adequate military equipment, the Chinese Special Police Force there finds itself unable to cope with the situation and is now in a helpless position. Following the raids, martial law has been declared at Shanhaikuan and with this precautionary measure, it is hoped that the situation will be gradually brought under control.

According to telephone messages received at Tientsin from Chienan and Lung in the Luantung Demilitarized Zone to-day, seven villages in these two cities had been raided by bandits who mostly came from Jehol and other parts outside the Great Wall. Virtually a reign of terror now exists in the Luantung Area and the Hopen Provincial Government is considering to dispatch a detachment of the Peace Preservation Corps into the Area to suppress the lawless elements there. CUSTOMS STATIONS

Along The Great Wall

Peiping, July 28.—Mr. Chang Yung-shen, representative of the Ministry of Finance, is reported to have decided to establish five Customs Stations at the five Great Wall Passes beginning from Koupeikow. Mr. Chang has requested Mr. Ying Ju-ken to negotiate with the Japanese authorities regarding the matter. However, in view of the fact that the Japanese troops are still stationed along the Great Wall with no immediate prospect of their withdrawal, it would be extremely difficult for the Chinese authorities to exercise their right in taxing goods passing through these Passes into North China, even the Japanese consent to the establishment of these Customs Stations. believe that Surprise with Mr. Marshall up was never unplaced at the Annual Race Meeting, being third in the Valley Stakes winner of the Tower Stakes, third in the Sub-Griffins' Challenge Cup, second in the Sports Club Cup, and third in the Sub-Griffins' Champions. After this, his five subsequent outings were what is generally known in the "Also Rans" and "racegoers" had lost a lot of money due to his failure.

It will be recalled that one of the best finishes at the Annual Race Meeting was in the Sports Club Cup and the Hong Kong Stakes over One and a Half Miles when Surprise lost the race by the narrowest margin, "SHORT HEAD" to Tiny Star and he in turn accounted for Soldier of Fortune by the same margin of defeat. "Classic Hall" was nosed out for place money. The race is still fresh in my mind and Surprise was very unlucky to lose it; apparently his Saddle-Cloth number "7" had no loss against "9" carried by Tiny Star. Rounding the bend there were Classic Hall followed closely by Soldier of Fortune, Surprise and Tiny Star and at the Distance Post, Classic Hall was given two strokes to which he responded gamely but was labouring hard within 100 yards from home. It could be seen at this point that the race was between Surprise who was close to the rails, Tiny Star in the centre and Soldier of Fortune on the outside, fighting it out stride by stride and the three named passed the Winning Post almost in a line. No one could tell the winner except the Judge.

There were over 1,000 odd tickets each on Tiny Star and Classic Hall, Soldier of Fortune and when the Judges ordered the number "9" to go first in the frame to be followed below by 7 & 5, and under the frame with "SHORT HEAD" and "THE SAME," the "3 minutes Silence" was broken. However in this race he was carrying top weight and conceded 1 lb. to Tiny Star but in the Sub-Griffins' Champions when he was third, he was giving 3 lbs. to Tiny Star and 6 lbs. to Classic Hall and the question at issue is whether Classic Hall can concede to "9" 3 lbs. in the Sub-Griffins' Autumn Plate. There is every possibility for Surprise to stage a "Come Back" and he will be worth backing each way.

All the "Subscription" Griffins mentioned in my notes have at one time or another been "Winners" with the exception of Sarabande. This pony has been "knocking" since February last and it is to be hoped he will find better luck during the second half.

FOOTBALL LAWS

touch, through the opponents' goal it would be a goal-kick for the defending side and not a goal. It is possible for the ball to roll all along the goal-line, and for the greater part of it to be over the line, and yet not pass through the goal. The goal-keeper may be behind the goal-line and yet prevent a goal. A Referee must under no circumstances allow a goal unless he is absolutely satisfied that the whole of the ball has passed out of play. In catching the ball or fisting out, a goal-keeper sometimes allows the ball to pass into goal in mid-air, and the Referee may consider that the whole of the ball crosses the line. If so, and he is in a good position to judge, he must give a goal.

It is difficult to judge unless one is close up, hence it is necessary for the Referee to follow the ball closely up and down the ground and try to get a side view whenever he thinks a shot is about to be put in, or there is a scrimmage in front of goal.

How Result of Game is Decided: A game shall be won by the team scoring the greater number of goals. If no goals have been scored, or the scores are equal at the end of the game, the game shall be drawn.

If Bar Displaced:—If from any cause during the progress of the game the bar is displaced, the Referee shall have the power to award a goal if in his opinion the ball would have passed under the bar if it had not been displaced. Instruction to Players:—A Goal-keeper must not pull down the bar.

If Ball Rebounds from Goal-Posts:—The ball is in play if it rebounds from a goal-post, cross-bar, or a corner flag-staff into the field of play. The ball is in play if it touches the Referee or a linesman when in the field of play.

Instruction to Referees:—The ball touching a Referee or a Linesman when he is in the field of play is still in play, although it might otherwise have gone into touch or over the goal-line. Linesmen should follow the game close to the touch-line and keep out of the field of play as much as possible.

Ball Crossing Lines, Out of Play.—The ball is out of play when it has crossed the goal-line or touch-line, either on the ground or in the air.

Instruction to Referees:—The ball going into touch in mid-air and afterwards alighting in the field of play is out of play.

Instruction to Players:—The ball may roll along the touch-line or goal-line and still be in play. The whole of the ball must have passed over and be clear of the touch-line or goal-line before it is out of play.

NEW YORK STOCK AND COMMODITY QUOTATIONS

AMERICAN ORIENTAL FINANCE CORPORATION AND S. E. LEVY & CO.

New York, Aug. 7.

The American Oriental Finance Corporation's report through their New York agents, Messrs. E. A. Pierce & Co., states:—

Stocks:—The strength of the market early in the session, was due to General Motors declaring an extra dividend. The failure of metal stocks to carry through yesterday's display of strength was disappointing. The weakness of rails and several industrial issues suggest a further test of July low levels.

Grain:—The market was dominated by speculative interest in wheat. Profit-taking was due to the strained technical position, rather than to any change in the general situation. Continued strength in the Rotterdam and Liverpool markets was noted. London interests were buying on a small scale.

Cotton:—Prices advanced on Trade, Continental and Commission House buying, prompted by strong cables from abroad, the strength of Sterling and the fact that the contemplated Government purchases of both cotton and cotton-goods are in excess of pre-Bureau report liquidation. The Egyptian cotton crop report is moderately bullish.

Silver:—There was some aggressive bidding, apparently for official account. It appears that official warehouse stocks of the metal will be reduced 50 per cent. when deliveries are taken against September.

Sales by Montgomery Ward during July amounted to $110,897,000 against $32,053,000 last year.

Sales by J. C. Penny for the seven months ending July 31 totalled $103,989,000 against $84,587,000 for the corresponding period of last year.

Electric Bond and Shares, for the year ending June 30, have shown a profit of 35 cents per share against 48 cents per share last year.

New York, Aug. 7.

Messrs. S. E. Levy & Company's report, through their New York agents, Messrs. White, Weld & Co., states:—

Stocks:—The market had a further drag to-day attesting to continuing doubt regarding the Fall outlook. Pressure of inflation was again an important factor and there is no clarification of the Government's intentions regarding stimulation of business or reassurance regarding private enterprise. This is vital and until the question is settled a quiet market is likely to continue on the present pattern. Business done: 610,000 shares.

Bonds:—High-grade bonds were lower with offerings light. There were some good bids, however. The market was hit particularly by the weakness of Rails and Utilities. Second-grade issues ruled weak.

Cotton:—The market was firm but there is hesitation about making new commitments until after the Bureau report is announced.

NEW RECORDS BY A.A.A. JUNIORS

Schoolboy's Furlong Record

London.

There were some brilliant performances in the intense heat by athletes recently at Mottspur Park, where the A.A.A. Junior championships included the seniors mile and four miles relays.

Records were beaten and a title and trophy changed hands. Milocarian A.C. deprived London A.C. of their mile relay title. R. Craddock took a slight lead from the holders just before the first take-over. F. Bowen increased the advantage, and G. L. Rampling and C. H. Stoneley, the Olympic Games runners, held on over the last two relays so that Milocarian won by two yards in 3 mins. 18 2-5 secs.

Achilles' Victory

Achilles beat South London Hadrillers (holders) in the four miles relay for the Victory Trophy. E. B. Fowle (S. L. H.) gave his team a thirty yards lead which he covered in 4 mins. 29 1-5 secs., but J. E. Lovelock, whose mile record figures still stand on the books, ran brilliantly over the next stage in 4 mins. 21 secs., to give Achilles a lead they never lost. J. F. Cornes (Achilles) breaking the tape well ahead of H. M. Craske (S. L. H.).

Cornes had his car stolen in London during the day. All his kit was in the car and he had to run in a borrowed outfit.

Junior records went more than once. Pennington (Berkhamsted School and Wallace) who had equalled the previous best in the 100 yards completed a "double" by taking the furlong in the new record time of 22 9-10 secs.; C. H. Oades, one of the few holders engaged, ran a brilliant last quarter to keep his half mile title with the new record time of 2 mins. 1 2-5 secs. (he was fourth at the half way stage), N. C. Downie put up new figures in the discus with 131 ft. 11 1/2 ins. no less than 16 ft. 7 1/2 ins. better than last year's record, while W. E. N. Breach improved the previous best figures for the long jump with 22 ft. 6 1/2 ins.

KEEN BIDDING FOR GOLD Fears For Future Of The Dollar

London, Aug. 8.

The bullion market yesterday and to-day witnessed some keen bidding for gold, to-day's price of 138/0 being fixed for supply and demand, representing a premium of ten pence over the dollar and five pence over the franc, the turnover being over half a million sterling.

The reason for the premiums is explained by the existing uncertainty regarding the prospects of the dollar. Americans are reported to have been buying British Government Funds and gold share commodities, especially rubber and silver.

It is generally acknowledged that the drought dealt the hardest blow to American farmers, both cotton and cereal crops being the smallest in many years, thus necessitating Government relief, probably before the elections.

The figure of a thousand million dollars is being widely mentioned for this, with housing and public works programmes and Government banking intentions which are also construed to be inflationary, combined with the increase in fears for the future of the dollar, especially in relation to gold bloc which explains the recent nervous Continental selling of dollars.

WHEAT PRICES UP

London, Aug. 7.

A sharp week-end increase in the prices of American and Argentine wheat caused great activity in the Liverpool Exchange to-day, and a rise occurred in the speculative market of three pence per cent, which is slightly over a shilling a quarter.

The price of flour was to-day officially raised to 1s. 6d. British Wireless.

LOANS TO RUSSIA

Claim By Bank Of England

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, July 23.

His Lordship Mr. Justice Eve delivered a reserved judgment in favour of the applicant on two applications by the Attorney-General, representing the Treasury and the Bank of England, which raised questions involving large sums of money originally raised in London in 1916 for the purpose of rehabilitating the credit of the then Imperial Government of Russia and to enable it to carry on the War.

The applications, which were heard together, were summonses taken out by the Attorney-General against the liquidators of the Russo-Asiatic Bank and the Russian Bank for Foreign Trade, branches of which still existed in London and had been ordered to be wound up as unregistered companies under section 338 of the Companies Act, 1929, asking for orders that the decisions of the liquidators, rejecting proofs of debt by the Bank of England on behalf of the Crown for £752,000 and £820,000 respectively, might be reversed and that the proofs might be allowed in full.

A Memorandum

By a memorandum of October 1, 1915, the following suggestions were made by the Bank of England for the rehabilitation of the Russian exchange:—(1) That approved Russian banks should draw three months' sterling bills on approved London banks and accepting houses and sell the drafts to the Banque de l'Etat, Petrograd. (2) The Banque de l'Etat to forward the bills for acceptance and discount and disposal of the proceeds. (3) All bills so drawn to be specially marked as drawn under the memorandum of October 1, 1915. (4) The London banks and accepting houses to undertake to renew the bills until one year after the termination of the War. (5) The Banque de l'Etat to undertake to put the accepting houses in funds to meet the bills three days before maturity. (6) All such bills to be advised to the Bank of England, who would regard them as A 1 bank bills for purposes of discount or otherwise. (7) Imperial Russian sterling Treasury bills, due one year after the termination of the War, to the amount of the acceptances to be lodged with the Bank of England as collateral security. (8) An accepting commission of one-half of 1 per cent. to be paid at the time of drawing to the London banks and accepting houses. (9) No commission to be charged either by the Banque de l'Etat or the Bank of England.

In pursuance of that arrangement the Russo-Asiatic Bank drew 151 bills of exchange on 21 accepting houses, some of which matured on February 3, 1918, and the rest on March 25, 1918, and which, through Baring Brothers and Co., Limited as agents for the Russo-Asiatic Bank, were presented to and accepted by a number of London banks and other financial houses under a form of agreement entered into between the Banque de l'Etat and each of the accepting houses which carried out more fully the terms of the memorandum of October 1, 1915, Clause 9 of the agreement was as follows:—

In the unlikely event of your not being placed in funds to meet your said acceptances or any of them, we hereby authorize the British Treasury to issue to you sterling Treasury Bills of the Imperial Russian Government to the amount of the said acceptances so unprovided for, such Treasury Bills to bear interest at 6 per cent. per annum from the date of their issue.

The agreements with the accepting houses provided that the acceptances of each house should not, unless otherwise agreed, exceed the sum of £50,000.

In January, 1918, shortly before maturity, all the acceptances were assigned to the Bank of England in consideration of the issue of Exchequer Bonds to the accepting houses to the amount of the bills accepted. Steps were then taken by the Bank of England to give notice in writing of the assignment to the Russo-Asiatic Bank at its head office in Petrograd, and also to the Banque de l'Etat, but, according to evidence from the Foreign Office, the letters containing the notices never reached their destination owing to the intervention of the Bolshevik revolution. The Bank of England therefore claimed to prove in the liquidation

KING'S SILVER JUBILEE

Planning The 1935 Celebration

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, July 25.

The Home Office, which is responsible for organizing the celebrations marking the twenty-fifth anniversary next year, of the King's accession to the Throne, has completed a draft programme of events. This draft is now under consideration by the King.

It is anticipated that the general character of the programme, as approved by his Majesty, will be announced in Parliament this week. Details have still to be decided, and these cannot be announced until a later date.

The actual date of the King's accession was May 6, 1910. On June 3 his Majesty will celebrate his 70th birthday.

The King has intimated in connection with suggestions already made, and which may be made in the future, that he wishes the celebrations to be so planned as to involve a minimum of extra expenditure on the part of local authorities and other bodies.

The underlying plan containing the proposals now under consideration by his Majesty is to make the celebrations of a local character throughout the Empire. By this means people in every part of the Empire, as well as in Great Britain, will be able to join equally in the rejoicing.

NO IMPERIAL CONFERENCE
The King's wishes with regard to the programme are eagerly awaited in every corner of the Empire. Tentative plans have already been considered Overseas of the London branch of the Russo-Asiatic Bank for the sum of £752,000, the total sum of the acceptances, assigned to the bank. The liquidators rejected the proof on the ground, among others, that the claim was barred by the Statutes of Limitation.

in Australia, Canada, New Zealand, and India.

Leading representatives of the Dominions and Crown Colonies have arranged to visit London during the period covered by the draft programme. There is, however, no present intention to hold anything in the nature of an Imperial Conference. Informal discussions are probable, and it is possible that an important Imperial function of some kind may be arranged as part of the Silver Jubilee programme.

With regard to unauthorised reports already published the following statement was issued from Buckingham Palace yesterday.

"There is no truth whatever in the suggestion that the King will make a tour of leading cities and towns of the country as part of the celebrations."

There is no precedent in modern British history for Silver Jubilee celebrations. Queen Victoria had been widowed for only a year when she reached the twenty-fifth anniversary of her accession, and there were no public functions. The Silver Jubilee of King George III also passed without public celebration, owing to the King's severe illness.
